

I Fought a War That Wasnt Mine (1)

My name is Joseph Smith I am a seventeen year old-African American- young man- I just graduated high school and was hired at the Mill. I Still live at home with my Mother, Father and three siblings but feel it is time to move out on my own and take responsibility of my life- as a man should; my older brother has made different plans for me though.I cant believe my own brother would deceive me so easily; for fear of his own destiny.Finding myself in the Vietnam War- fighting to stay alive; pushing emotional feelings deep inside, living in the marsh of death and fear, having to step-up and be a man- then deciding to forgive.I have painfully survived my years into manhood - but was headed down the wrong path when an unexpected tragedy shakes me to the core of my soul.I find old letters from my Mother that guide me and assure me that things will work out fine regardless of the pain I find myself in, yet again.
