

Treasures from Tuscany: The Etruscan Legacy

edited by Elizabeth Goring This catalogue is published in association with an exhibition held at the Royal Museum in Edinburgh in 2004 celebrating the legacy of the Etruscan civilisation. Hundreds of objects from collections in Tuscany were brought to the exhibition and are pictured here alongside those from the National Museums of Scotland and the British Museum. The objects are divided into five thematic and chronological sections looking at the rise of the Etruscan civilisation 900-725, wealth and power 725-580, urban society 580-325, decline 325-90 and religion, each preceded by a short introduction. Superb sculptures, bronzes, ornaments, cremation urns, decorated ceramics, goldwork, exotics and jewellery are just some of the categories of objects displayed.
