

I love the sad scriptures. They help in times of pain. When we are hurting, we read of others who have hurt, especially those who have suffered more than us. Their grief, and how they wrestle with their dark situation, can ease our pain. In the darkest hours, I have found comfort from the grief of others in the Bible. The painful, confused, searching words of others help. The sad scriptures aid us. God will use them to touch the far reaches of your soul. God will use them to shine a flashlight in those dark, lonely corners of your heart and comfort you. This is an invitation to find healing in the lonely scriptures.
