

Excerpt from Historical Tales, the Romance of Reality: Roman What follows sounds still more like fable. A she wolf that came to the water to drink chanced to see the helpless children, and carried them to her cave, where she fed them with her milk. As they grew older a woodpecker brought them food, ying in and out of the cave. At length Faustulus, a herdsman of the king, found these lusty infants in the wolfs den, took them home, and gave them to his wife Laurentia to bring up with her own children. He gave them the names of Romulus and Remus. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
