

Loving The African Man

In this groundbreaking research Chiedza Simbo unleashes a daring, new and fresh voice from 21st century African women. Based on real life stories Loving The African Man centres around conversations with women who have walked in your shoes and felt their tightness. This book will help any woman understand 21st century African men. It will help African men understand the dynamics of loving women in the 21st century. Times have changed, you cannot be left behind. Fights, breakups, divorce and conflicts are simply avoidable and unnecessary if you know the real challenges as stated in this book. Contrary to traditional lies and stereotypes the problem was never your partner, the challenge was never you; the real enemy is identified in this book. Loving The African Man was written with women by women and for women and as such, it is a must read for every African man. Many pertinent issues facing black women have been discussed at length and backed up with facts in this intriguing book. Every single black woman out there, in fact, all women, will be able to relate to this book. - Editors comment
