

This 8-lesson study text introduces the New Perspective on Paul and offers a fresh interpretation of Paul's writings regarding the role of women in church and society and homosexuality. Of particular interest is Paul's calling as Apostle to the Gentiles (while remaining a faithful, practicing Jew), his name change from Saul to Paul, the importance of faithfulness to the Abrahamic covenant, and a comparison of Adam and Christ. This approach will appeal especially to those self-identifying as progressive Christians. Contrasts are made between a progressive (liberal or mainstream) Protestant and conservative evangelical Protestants. Some basic grammar issues from the original biblical Greek translated to modern English are examined. Comparisons are made between the Pauline letters all scholars agree are authentic (Romans, 1 and 2 Corinthians, Galatians, Philippians, 1 Thessalonians, and Philemon) and those whose authenticity is disputed (2 Thessalonians, Ephesians, Colossians, 1 and 2 Timothy, and Titus). Also, a brief comparison is made between the Pauline letters and the accounts of his ministry and travel in Acts. Richard Brown studied with one of the early proponents of the New Perspective on Paul, Lloyd Gaston, at Vancouver School of Theology. He holds a masters degree in religion from Park University Graduate School of Religion and a bachelors degree in journalism from the University of Missouri at Columbia. A former newspaper reporter, he retired after 23 years as a book and magazine editor for Herald Publishing House and community of Christ International Headquarters.
